About this Guide

The objective of this directory is to help immigrants to the United States find English as a Second Language programs in their area that are best suited to their needs. Originally created as a collaborative project between the NJ Departments of Community Affairs and Education, it is annually revised by the NJDOE. The resources in the directory are current as of June 2011, but be aware that programs are constantly changing. The listings are grouped alphabetically by county. The directory also contains a listing of Internet ESL resources, resources for businesses that wish to provide their employees with ESL training, and an index of the listings in the back.

- Many libraries offer ESL classes and other community services free of charge. <http://www.publiclibraries.com/newjersey.htm> lists and provides websites for all New Jersey libraries.
- For additional professional planning services, see listings of One-Stop Career Centers (pg. 49).

If you are eligible for unemployment benefits or welfare, you are eligible to receive free ESL classes from Workforce Advantage, a government agency that deals with employment. You must get a reference from the unemployment or welfare office before signing up for classes. They have locations throughout the state.

Also the county that you live in has a program that is run by the unemployment office contact the office in your county for more information
