Using Mediation to Resolve Complaints

❖ The Mediation Option

The New Jersey Government Records Council offers mediation to resolve disagreements arising from a request for government records. A trained, neutral mediator is available to assist the parties – the person who was allegedly denied access to a government record and the custodian who allegedly denied access -- reach a mutually acceptable resolution to their differences.

❖ What is Mediation?

Mediation is an informal, non-adversarial, voluntary problem-solving process. The purpose of the mediation is to:

- i. Promote discussion between the parties,
- ii. Assist parties to develop and exchange pertinent information and data concerning the issues in dispute, and
- iii. Assist parties to develop proposals that will enable them to arrive at a mutually acceptable outcome.

The mediator is an impartial, third party whose purpose is to help frame the issues, focus discussion, clarify points of agreement and disagreement, and assist parties in considering options to resolve the dispute. The mediator is not a judge and has no authority to determine the merits of the complaint or the outcome of the mediation, nor does a mediator act as an advocate for any party to the dispute. Ultimately, the parties control whether and how the dispute is resolved.

❖ Features of Mediation:

Voluntary - Both parties must agree to participate in mediation. Any party to the mediation may withdraw at any time by notifying the mediator and all other parties involved. The mediator can also terminate the process at any point if it appears that further mediation would be unproductive. Settlement, too, is entirely voluntary. If a settlement is reached, however, the mediator will assist the parties in putting their agreement into written form. Once all parties sign a Mediation Settlement Agreement, it becomes binding and all parties are obligated to fulfill the promises made in the Agreement.

Confidential - Information that is disclosed in the course of mediation and not otherwise obtainable is confidential, for settlement purposes only, and cannot be used in any future proceeding unless expressly agreed to by the parties. Records of the proceeding - stenographic, electronic or otherwise - will be maintained in a confidential file pursuant to the Uniform Mediation Act (N.J.S.A. 2A:23C-1 et seq). Parties will not be bound by anything said or done in mediation unless and until there is a written Mediation Settlement Agreement.

Informal - Mediation is not a legal proceeding. There will be no testimony or witnesses, and rules of evidence do not apply. Rather, mediation is informal and aimed at reaching terms agreeable to both parties.

❖ Why Consider Mediation?

No cost - Mediation is free to both parties. If both parties agree to try mediation, there is no obligation for the custodian to formally respond to the complaint, or for the person requesting records to prepare testimony.

Prompt, convenient and private - Mediation takes place at a mutually agreed upon time and place; the mediation session is a private, informal discussion.

No representation necessary - Although the parties may each bring a legal representative. It is essential however, that participants in the mediation have decision-making authority, that is, the ability to commit to a settlement, or in the case of the custodian, to obtain such authority by telephone.

Parties control the outcome - Parties negotiate the terms that meet their interests. Parties will not be bound by anything said or done at the mediation unless a Mediation Settlement Agreement is signed. In addition, parties do not waive any of their rights by coming to mediation, nor will they be sanctioned for not participating or not reaching agreement.

❖ How does Mediation Work?

Once both parties sign the Agreement to Mediate, a mediator will contact the parties to conduct an initial conference call to describe the mediation process, to identify the people with decision-making authority who need to be present at the mediation session, to provide the mediator with a brief overview of the issues, and to schedule the mediation. It is the responsibility of each party to notify their legal representative, if any, of the pending mediation session.

The mediator opens the mediation session by describing his or her role as an impartial, third party and explaining the mediation procedure. Each party then will have an opportunity to discuss issues of concern. The mediator will meet jointly and separately with the parties to further the exchange of information, to help parties understand one another's perspective, and to explore settlement options.

If settlement is reached, the terms of the agreement will be reduced to writing and signed by the parties. A copy of the Mediation Settlement Agreement is given to each party. If there is no agreement, the matter will be referred for adjudication by the GRC.

❖ Who is the Mediator?

The GRC provides mediation services to promote the use of means other than litigation to resolve disputes affecting the public interest. The Mediator is an attorney well versed in the Open Public Records Act and is professionally trained in dispute resolution.
