

Expanded Opportunity to Participate in SICC Public Meetings Via Video Conferencing

The New Jersey State Interagency Coordinating Council (SICC) provides advice & assistance to the Department of Health & Senior Services as the Governor appointed lead agency for the New Jersey Early Intervention System (NJEIS). The membership of the SICC includes family members; representatives of state agencies (Education, Human Services, Children and Families, Banking & Insurance, Health & Senior Services); Early Intervention Program agencies; service coordination agencies; Head Start; Higher Education; other related providers and a legislator.

Each meeting agenda consists of reports from the lead agency and SICC committees, identifying and discussing recommendations to enhance the NJEIS and an opportunity for public comment.

In order to increase involvement from a broader range of individuals interested in early intervention services, the SICC is offering another option to participate in meetings through the use of video conferencing at two locations. All meetings and locations are open to the public.

Information about the SICC is available at <http://www.state.nj.us/health/fhs/eis/sicc.shtml>.

Interested families, community partners, NJEIS agency representatives and general public are encouraged to participate in SICC meetings in person or via video conferencing at the following locations:
