9. Staying Active and Involved

Staying active and involved is the key to maintaining health and independence and can lower your risk for many common diseases and help you to recover faster when you do get sick.

Exercise and Fitness

Strength, balance, flexibility, and endurance are four assets that are important to preserving health and independence. Regular exercise and physical activity will assist you to maintain -- or even partly restore -- lost function in these four areas. Being active can also help you delay, and in some cases, prevent conditions associated with aging. No matter how frail a person is, exercise can be incorporated into your daily routine. A group fitness program can be beneficial by providing social interaction and motivation, which may assist you to overcome your resistance to exercising.

It is important to incorporate activities you enjoy into your exercise routine. Some exercise options include:

- ❑ Walking
- ❑ Swimming
- ❑ Dancing
- ❑ Cycling
- ❑ Gardening
- ❑ Tai Chi
- ❑ Stretching
- ❑ Resistance training
- ❑ Strength training
- ❑ Aerobic exercise

Safety Tips

Always consult your doctor before beginning an exercise regimen. If you do begin an exercise program, consider these safety tips:

- ❑ Start slow. Add to your exercise routine gradually.
- ❑ Be sure to warm up your muscles before stretching. Try walking and light arm pumping to get the blood flow going.
- ❑ Keep breathing during strength exercises. Holding your breath can cause blood pressure fluctuations. Whenever lifting anything, you should breathe out and breathe in as you relax.
- ❑ Use equipment appropriate for the activity, such as a bike helmet or proper footwear.
- ❑ Drink plenty of fluids while active unless you are on a fluid restriction.
- ❑ Be aware when bending; always bend at the hips and not the waist. This will help to prevent back injuries.
- ❑ Before stretching be sure to warm up your muscles. Try walking and light arm pumping to get the blood flow going.

To locate a fitness program in your area, check with your local YMCA, churches, and senior centers, as well as your county AAA/ADRC.

Health & Wellness Programs

Health and wellness is important for both the aging and the physically disabled. Research has shown that giving people information on healthy practices leads to positive behavioral changes that powerfully affect one's health and quality of life. Encouraging people to engage in evidence-based disease prevention programs is a key strategy to address the impact of chronic disease and the prevention of secondary conditions.

The following programs are specifically designed for older adults (generally age 60 and older).

HealthEASE Health Education

This educational series includes important information on six health promotion topics of interest to older adults and their caregivers. The six modules are titled:

- ❑ Exercise and Getting Fit
- ❑ Serving Up Good Nutrition
- ❑ Bone Up On Your Health – osteoporosis and falls prevention
- ❑ Be Wise About Your Medications – medication management and substance abuse
- ❑ Keeping Up The Beat – self management techniques for cardiovascular disease
- ❑ Maximizing Memory – maintaining memory and cognitive skills

The modules can be delivered individually or as a six-session series. Health and aging professionals are trained to deliver the modules through a half-day program provided by the NJ Dept. of Health and Senior Services.

HealthEASE Move Today Exercise Class

A one-hour non-aerobic exercise class designed to improve flexibility, balance and stamina. Exercises can be done while sitting or standing. Classes are led by trained peer leaders and meet weekly or bi-weekly for twelve sessions.

Program features include:

- ❑ A brief education component focusing on an exercise-related topic.
- ❑ Inexpensive exercise bands used to gain maximum effect from resistance exercises.
- ❑ A major focus on good posture and falls prevention.
- ❑ An exercise intensity scale and a weekly exercise log to track participant activity.
- ❑ A self-assessment process for participants to assess their health, physical well-being and intent for behavior change conducted before and upon completion of the program.

Live Long, Live Well, Walking Program

Walking is one of the best ways for people of any age to become and stay fit. Participants of this program can make major strides toward preventing diseases such as obesity, heart disease, diabetes, stroke, osteoporosis and osteoarthritis.

This program encourages New Jersey residents, age 50 and older to walk at least 30 minutes most days of the week for a period of twelve weeks.

Participants can obtain a walking log to track their progress and receive a Walking Recognition Award from the State of New Jersey when they complete twelve weeks of walking.

Coordinated Screenings

From time to time, local health departments partner with health, aging and disability services providers to offer free health screenings for the public. Activities at these events may include a variety of health screenings (including vision, hearing, blood pressure, cancer and podiatric), health education (including nutrition, physical activity and falls prevention), and testing (including blood glucose, cholesterol, body mass index, bone density) and immunizations. Through the State's HealthEASE program, protocols have been established to refer individuals with abnormal screening results to health care providers. For more information on coordinated screenings, contact your ADRC/AAA at 1-877-222-3737.

Take Control of Your Health (A Chronic Disease Self-Management Program)

Take Control of Your Health is an evidence-based, six-week course that meets once a week for two hours and is designed to give people with chronic conditions (such as arthritis, heart disease, diabetes, emphysema, asthma, bronchitis, and osteoporosis) and/or their caregivers the knowledge, skills and confidence they need to take a more active part in their health care. Trained leaders who want to help other people learn to gain control of their conditions teach the program.

Participants learn strategies for managing symptoms, working with health care professionals, setting weekly goals, problem solving, relaxing, handling difficult emotions, eating well, and exercising safely and easily. It is designed to complement, not replace, professional health care services.

Project Healthy Bones

This exercise and education program is for people with or at risk of osteoporosis and is based on research that links strength training exercises to improved bone density in older adults. It includes exercises that target the body's larger muscle groups to improve strength, balance and flexibility. The 24-week curriculum includes sessions on the importance of exercise, nutrition, safety, drug therapy, and lifestyle factors. This program is peer-led. Lead coordinators from local health departments, county offices on aging, Retired and Senior Volunteer Programs (RSVPs) and other community-based organizations coordinate the program at the local level and oversee program delivery and training for peer leaders.

Healthy IDEAS (Identifying Depression, Empowering Activities for Seniors)

Healthy IDEAS is designed to detect and reduce the severity of depressive symptoms in older adults with chronic health conditions and functional limitations. The program incorporates four evidence-based components into the ongoing service delivery of care management or social service programs serving older adults in the home environment. This program is currently being provided in parts of Essex, Hudson, Morris and Union Counties.

A Matter of Balance

A Matter of Balance is a community-based program specifically designed to reduce fear of falling and improve activity levels among older adults. The program includes eight classes, each lasting two hours, presented over a four-week period by trained coaches using a detailed training manual, two instructional videos and a visit from a guest health professional. A Matter of Balance is available in select counties only.
