Fair to Recruit Adjunct Faculty to be Held April 23 at Middlesex County College

Middlesex County College will hold an Adjunct Faculty Recruitment Fair Tuesday, April 23, at which prospective adjunct instructors can talk with department chairpersons about openings at the College.

“This is a convenient way for professionals who would like to teach at the College level to find out about opportunities and even interview for available positions,” said Dr. Karen L. Hays, vice president for academic and student affairs at the College.

The program will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. in the College Center Cafeteria.

Most positions require a master’s degree, and some disciplines call for other certifications as well. In some fields, relevant experience may be substituted for a master’s degree; however, all college level courses require that the instructor have a minimum of a master’s degree. Please download an application from the College’s website, www.middlesexcc.edu/hr, complete it, and bring several resumes and a copy of an unofficial transcript.

The College is seeking people to teach in many academic areas, including: Art, Business, Criminal Justice, Computer Science, Economics, Accounting, Health and Recreation, English Composition, Science, Computer Graphics, Liberal Arts, Mathematics, Land Surveying, Modern Languages, Theatre, Culinary Arts, Public Speaking, Retailing, Student Success, and English as a Second Language. There are several high-demand areas in which a number of positions are open, such as Anatomy and Physiology, Microbiology, General Biology, General Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, Forensic Accounting and Fraud Examination. There is a critical need for adjuncts able to teach during the day. Also, given the academic preparation required for every major, there is a continuing need for instructors to teach reading, writing, and math courses at both the developmental and higher levels, as well as Psychology, Philosophy and Health. Classes are offered during the day, evenings and on Saturday at the Edison campus and at the Centers in New Brunswick and Perth Amboy. Please see the website for a list of available courses.
