GOVERNOR CHRISTIE'S "SEASON OF SERVICE" CONTINUES
Treasurer and Labor Commissioner Volunteer at Arc of Monmouth County

LONG BRANCH, N.J., December 19, 2013 -- Today New Jersey State Treasurer Andrew Sidamon-Eristoff and Labor Commissioner Harold Wirths worked alongside volunteers from the global banking company BNP Paribas and the nonprofit volunteer organization, Jersey Cares, to spread holiday cheer during Governor Chris Christie's annual "Season of Service" initiative.

The two members of Governor Christie's cabinet were among approximately 60 volunteers who gathered at the Arc of Monmouth County Work Opportunity Center in Long Branch to celebrate the holiday season with about 150 clients by serving lunch, making crafts together and wrapping donated gifts. They also sorted and packaged miniature Christmas trees and baked cookies for clients.

All cabinet officials in the Christie Administration are spending time volunteering and highlighting service opportunities as part of the administration's Third Annual "Season of Service," which the Governor and First Lady Mary Pat Christie initiated in 2011. Christie Administration officials will continue to donate their time and highlight service opportunities around the state throughout December, volunteering in a variety of ways to serve New Jersey's most vulnerable residents as well as families and communities recovering from Superstorm Sandy.
