

UST INDIVIDUAL RENEWAL CONTINUING EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS

All individuals holding a UST certification are required to complete a UST Regulatory course and provide current Health and Safety Training (OSHA/HAZWOPER). The department's rules and regulations concerning underground storage tanks regulatory course must be completed one year prior to the expiration date of their certification. There is a 90-day grace period after the expiration date. If your license has expired and you are within the 90-day grace period, you are not permitted to perform work duties until the license renewal is paid, and you have completed the required courses. Approved course providers are listed below. You are reminded that this course must be completed at the time you submit your renewal invoice for processing. By submitting your renewal invoice, you indicate that you have met the requirements set forth in 7:14B-13.6 and 7:14B-16.7 and have submitted proof of completing the course to the Department. If you cannot meet the requirement you must re-apply for certification. You are not eligible to renew.
