

Join us for a free seminar on
Northern Bobwhite Quail
Habitat and Management.

NJ Audubon and the NJ Department of Environmental Protection invite you to a free seminar about Bobwhite Quail.

Featured speaker Dr. Chris Williams of the University of Delaware will discuss current population trends, causes for declines and methods to reverse this trend.

Paul Castelli, Research Scientist for NJ Division of Fish & Wildlife, will also talk about the state's new Bobwhite Quail Action Plan. We will conclude the evening with a panel discussion with local experts.

When: April 29th, 2010 from 7:00 PM until 8:30 PM

Where: Ware Agricultural Extension Office
51 Cheney Rd., Woodstown, NJ 08098

RSVP is encouraged. Contact 609-861-1608 ext. 24 to RSVP or for more information.

