INTRODUCTION

Located in the wooded hills of Northern Hunterdon County two miles north of the town of High Bridge, Voorhees State Park is a popular hiking and camping destination.

HISTORY

The land that now encompasses the 1,342-acre Voorhees State Park is part of a rolling landscape that was once a rural agricultural region, which existed for almost 200 years. The vision for the park was a direct result of Foster McGowan Voorhees, former Governor of New Jersey (1899-1902). Upon his death in 1927, he generously donated his 323-acre farm known as "Hills Acres" to the State of New Jersey to use for forestry demonstration projects. Voorhees State Park was officially established in 1929.

The 1920s and 1930s sent the nation into the uncertain times of the Great Depression. To combat unemployment and other economic ravages, President Franklin D. Roosevelt established a national job-training program for American youth in March of 1933. By June of that year, the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) was created through an act entitled “Emergency Conservation Work.”

On October 1, 1933, construction of the CCC camp at Voorhees State Park began. Fourteen days later, the first enrollees began arriving from Priest River, Idaho to assist with the building of the camp. October 31 of that year marked the opening of Company 1268, Camp 20 S.P.5. By November 29, the camp was ready for occupation by unmarried, unemployed young men in need. From October 1933 through June 1941, the men of the CCC planted trees and constructed three shelters, picnic sites, roads, parking areas and trails. The legacies of the CCC contributions remain visible today throughout the park. Today, Voorhees State Park has grown into a multipurpose recreational facility offering both daytime and nighttime recreational opportunities.

FEATURES AND ACTIVITIES

Trails

More than nine miles of trails meander through the park and are popular for hiking, jogging and biking. Highlands Trail extends more than 150 miles from Storm King Mountain on the Hudson River in New York south to Riegelsville, New Jersey, on the Delaware River. A 2.3 mile section of Highlands Trail takes hikers across the park through varying forest terrain. A trails brochure is available on the exterior of the closed park office building and at Spruce Run Recreation Area park office.

Camping

Family campsites, shelters and group campsites are available from April 1 – October 31. Each campsite is equipped with a picnic table, fire ring and parking for two vehicles. Restrooms, showers, drinking water and a playground are located within the campground. The entrance to the campground is on Observatory Road, one mile south of the main park entrance along Route 513. Advanced reservations can be made at camping.nj.gov. Same day reservations can be made at the Spruce Run Recreation Area park office. Ground fires are permitted in the provided fire ring. Pets and alcoholic beverages are not permitted in the campground.

Picnicking

Voorhees State Park picnic areas are situated in wooded settings throughout the park and are ideal for family picnics. Picnic areas have charcoal grills and picnic tables, all are first-come, first-served. A playground and open playing fields are nearby. Charcoal fires must be confined to the metal grills provided, or to grills brought by the picnicker.

Voorhees offers two reservable group picnic areas which includes picnic tables, charcoal grills, a covered pavilion, playground, parking and Clivus unit restrooms. For more information contact the Spruce Run Recreation Area Park Office. Alcoholic beverages are not permitted.

Hunting & Fishing

Hunting and fishing are permitted throughout the forest unless posted otherwise and are subject to NJDEP Fish & Wildlife regulations dep.nj.gov/njfw/. Hunting is not permitted in New Jersey state parks and forests on Sundays.

Willoughby Brook is designated as a “Wild Trout Stream” and Wild Trout Stream regulations apply.

Observatory

Located on the highest elevation in the park, 840 feet above sea level, the New Jersey Astronomical Association (NJAA) observatory and education center offers astronomical viewing experiences for all ages. Built in 1965, it features a 26 inch Newtonian reflector telescope, the largest privately-owned telescope in the state, along with three mini observatories. The NJAA delivers monthly lectures and dynamic youth programs covering a broad range of astronomy activities. Online instrumentation and a real time night sky camera keep everyone informed of evening viewing conditions. For more information, please visit njaa.org or call 908-638-8500.

Scenic Overlooks

The scenic overlook on Observatory Road has a vantage point towards Round Valley Reservoir, which lies in the gently rolling hills of Hunterdon County. The winter views from Vista Trail provide glimpses of Spruce Run Reservoir.

Parcourse

Cooperatively installed by the NJ State Park Service and Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ, the parcourse combines all the elements of a scientifically designed exercise program in an outdoor setting. This fitness course is a series of exercise stations spaced along a one mile path. The stations provide opportunities for warming up, stretching, muscle strengthening, cardiovascular conditioning and cooling down combined with walking, jogging and running between stations. The wooded trail has been carefully designed for use by people at every level of fitness and athletic ability.

Access For People With Disabilities

Voorhees State Park facilities are partially accessible for people with disabilities. Please contact the Spruce Run Recreation Area park office for further information regarding disability access. Text telephone (TTY) users, call the NJ Relay & CapTel Service at 711 or 1-800-852-7897 for English or 1-866-658-7714 for Spanish.
