Subject: Technical Assistance: Title I Services for Nonpublic Students

The New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE) is pleased to announce a technical assistance opportunity that features Nola Cromer, Title I private school specialist from the United States Department of Education. This one-day training is scheduled for April 5, 2011, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., at the East Brunswick Hilton, 3 Tower Center Boulevard, East Brunswick, New Jersey.

The session is geared to Title I districts and will cover the federal requirements for providing Title I services to eligible students who attend nonpublic schools. It will provide information about the aspects of consultation, meetings, decision-making, student count process, eligibility calculations, contracting for services, and other areas covered in the federal law and guidance. There will be ample time for questions and interaction.

Please select a representative from your district to attend this important training. Registration is through the NJDOE on-line event site at <http://education.state.nj.us/events/>.
