Convening

State Board of Education President Kathy Goldenberg convened the public meeting at 9:10 a.m. with the reading of the statement pertaining to the public session of the State Board meeting as it complies with the New Jersey Open Public Meetings Act.

Pledge Of Allegiance

In response to the killing of George Floyd

Remarks by President Goldenberg

I would like to take a point of personal honor to address the events that have taken place recently throughout our nation.

Like many of you, I have been profoundly affected by the killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis and the demonstrations that have taken place all across New Jersey, the United States, and the world. The peaceful protesters demanding an honest examination of racism in America, as well as widespread reforms, gives me hope that we are in the midst of a profound change, while the acts of violence and vandalism that followed in many places leave me with a heavy heart.

As I process all that has happened in the last 10 days -- in the midst of a global pandemic nonetheless -- one question emerges: What effect is all of this having on our students?

If this is a lot to deal with for adults, the emotional toll on young children and teenagers undoubtedly will be profound. And, unfortunately, many New Jersey students of color are far too familiar with the effects of systemic racism.

Although New Jersey’s school buildings are closed right now due to COVID-19 and summer break will soon begin, students will carry the events of spring 2020 with them when they finally return to school.

Teachers, counselors, principals, superintendents, and district board of education members will all play a role in helping students to process everything that has happened in the past three months. Whether it is helping students adjust to changes in school buildings and class schedules due to COVID-19, or turning students’ questions about the past week’s events into teachable moments, I have no doubt that New Jersey’s educators, school officials, and board members will continue to support students and communities in every way possible.
I also believe it is imperative, at a time such as this, that our main constituency -- which is New Jersey’s 1.4 million public school students -- knows that we see them, hear them, and care about them. Each and every one of them.

So, I offer the Department any assistance necessary as we continue to identify the supports that school districts will need as they address the mental and physical health needs of their students.

Dr. Repollet, ensuring equity in New Jersey’s education system has been one of your main objectives as Commissioner. I applaud your steadfast focus on that goal and remain committed to providing all students with the educational opportunities and access to reach their dreams and full potential.

Our students deserve nothing less.

Remarks by Arcelio Aponte

As a member of the black and brown community, I am horrified by the needless death of George Floyd and countless others. Even more distressing, these incidences have occurred while the black and brown community have been hit the hardest with COVID, unemployment, disproportionate arrests for not social distancing, brutalized while in police custody, and they don’t have adequate technology needed. These are the gross inequities we have to address because the knee of injustice is choking the life out of black and brown communities across NJ and the country. We need to be engaged on a national level. I would also like to applaud the community, including my own children, who were in Asbury Park supporting the protest there.

What we do in the future should impact upon the quality of education we deliver to the State of New Jersey.

Remarks by Fatimah Burnam-Watkins

I echo what Arcelio just said. We are in the midst of crisis of a pandemic and civil unrest and what I have heard described as complete pandemonium. This is weighing heavily on my heart and mind. What we need is leadership now. I am a black mom married to a black man and have triplets. My son said to me the other day that he wants to keep fighting so that he will have a confirmation that he can live, and it is just not right. Now more than ever we need to think about what we are doing as educators and leaders. I am heartened by the student led protests, and I feel we need to support our kids and help them figure out what they could do and how they could make this happen. We are at a cornerstone of change that we need to see in this country.

Remarks by Sylvia Sylvia

To piggyback on what Arcelio said and in particular to speak about the peaceful protest in my community on Monday. It was peaceful, respectful and meaningful, and I am so proud to be a part of the Asbury Park community, and so proud to be a part of the thousands of people who attended. I think something in advance of that would be that the Asbury Park police department issued a statement saying they stand together with the community, and they publicly denounced the officers who were involved in the murder of George Floyd. They actually used the term murder, and it shows the perspective of understanding and change that unfortunately so many people have experienced in the past. I think that is what sets apart a lot of the communities that are understanding versus those who are not and that want to see positive change, and that we do not want to sit silent and that we do correct those who have the least subtle of racist comments and that they know they are doing, but have not been called out on. Our police force stood, they hugged, they chanted, and they sang, and as far as the unrest and the violence that has been occurring at many of these events, and at ours as well, those are happening not by members of the community. The peaceful protests are happening in an organized and wonderful fashion and then the people who are coming in after these events are over are not a part of anyone’s peace movement, they are just there to cause damage. They are not there to see unity, and I really hope that nationally people can make that discernation that what happens afterward is not a part of this movement. I really hope that the populous at large will not accept and not consider that this is what is looking to be achieved. It is the actual organized movements that you will learn so much by and see so much unity between the black, brown, white and blue. I know that change is upon us and for the better, and I say that as one of the mothers of one of the members of that police force and I cannot be more proud of all of them.

Remarks by Ron Butcher

I wanted to chime in and say in the past 30 years this is probably one of the most unprecedented times in at least my career on the State Board of Education, and it is definitely one that calls for leadership. In that regard I just simply wanted to echo the comments and concerns you made with your opening statement, the comments and concerns expressed by Arcelio, and then the follow up by Fatimah, Sylvia as well as our student representative. I just wanted to personally take this opportunity to thank all of you for your very heartfelt and sincere comments. I think that’s a key component in leadership and I hope one that we can all follow.

Remarks by Nedd Johnson

I just want to thank you Kathy for taking leadership and acknowledging this situation that is going on now throughout this country. As an African American male who has experienced many of these same types of challenges that many of our young people face today, I have been able to live some of those things and come out through it on the other end, but I just want to continue having this Board serve as a point of reference in leadership in difficult conversations. I think as a group we work well together, and I think we look at those issues from multiple perspectives, but we always come to some kind of resolution. I just wanted to add in that we are in this particular moment in history, and I am so proud to be a part of this organization and the work tone that the Commissioner has set over his term here. I just want to once again thank him personally and wish him the best of luck as he transitions to his next opportunity. Thank you.

State Board Committee Reports

Report of the State Board Nominating Committee

President Goldenberg announced the members of the State Board Nominating Committee. Mary Beth Gazi will serve as Chair of the committee and State Board members Arcelio Aponte and Mrs. Sylvia Sylvia will serve on the committee. President Goldenberg stated the State Board nominating committee will present the slate of officers for the 2020-2021 school year at the June 3, 2020 meeting. She also stated that in accordance with State Board bylaws, the elections for the State Board leadership will be held after June 30.

Policy Committee

Elaine Bobrove, chair, Policy Committee stated that the committee met on May 20, 2020 and May 29, 2020 to discuss many of the items on today’s agenda as well as some other items that will be discussed at the next meeting. Ms. Bobrove stated that it is unusual for them to meet so many times, but that the number of things they had to go over were of immense importance, and there was a time limit in which they could deal with these issues.

Ms. Bobrove stated that primary among the things that were discussed were the approval of the learning standards which they will talk about at the meeting, and which they talked about in depth. They discussed the Standards in Science, Social Studies, Comprehensive Health, Physical Education, Visual and Performing Arts, World Languages, and 21st Century Life and Careers. Ms. Bobrove stated that she must commend the Department of Education for being so responsive to all of their many questions during the policy meeting, and for helping come to the conclusion that the standards are really something that they can all agree on and felt very strongly about. In addition, Ms. Bobrove stated that they talked about the QSAC changes as a result of COVID-19, and that topic will also be discussed during the meeting and probably the one that follows it. In conclusion, Ms. Bobrove stated that there were other issues that were discussed and will not be covered this time but will be discussed at the next meeting. Ms. Bobrove took the opportunity to thank the members of the Policy Committee, and also thanked the Department of Education and Commissioner Repollet for all that they have done to try and help this come together in such a meaningful way.

Ad Hoc Committee

President Goldenberg stated that the Ad Hoc committee, chaired by state board member Sylvia Sylvia met on May 12, 2020 to discuss the Annual State Board Calendar of Meeting Dates for 2020-2021 and the result is the recommendation in Item C that we will be discussing later in the agenda. President Goldenberg also stated that during Item C, Sylvia Sylvia would summarize the recommendation.

Petition for Rulemaking

President Goldenberg stated that on January 29, 2020, and February 24, 2020, the State Board Office received two petition for rulemaking requests from James Shoop. She stated that the first petition requested that the State Board of Education amend N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3 to align the rule governing student transportation bid specifications and contracts with Title 52 of New Jersey Annotated Statutes and that the rules be amended to add language requiring the business registration certificate be submitted to the district board of education prior to the time a contract, purchase order, or other contracting document is awarded or authorized. She also stated that the second petition requested that the State Board of Education amend N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.7 to align the section regarding insurance for vehicles used to transport students with New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission (NJMVC) rules at N.J.A.C. 13:20-52.1. The petitioner requested that the State Board adopt new N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.7(g) as follows: “New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission and New Jersey Department of Education shall be named as certificate holders.” The petition states the proposed rule mirrors N.J.A.C. 13:20-52.1(h).

President Goldenberg stated that the Department had filed for an extension of time on these petitions due to the COVID emergency. In the extension of time, President Goldenberg stated that the Department said it wanted to review the requests in the context of the entire chapter and possible amendments.

President Goldenberg stated that she and the Commissioner have further considered the petitioner’s requests and recommend that they both be denied.

She stated that the first should be denied because, the current rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3(e)3, is consistent with the statute as the current rule defines the required school transportation contract bid specifications, which are the standards articulated by a district board of education when it advertises to potential bidders. She also stated that bidders must meet all of the specifications to qualify to be awarded a contract. She further stated that N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3(e) specifically lists “the documents and forms prescribed by the Commissioner to be made part of the bid specifications and contract,” and includes “A business registration certificate.”

President Goldenberg stated as a business registration certificate is a required item in the bid specifications, the regulations ensure that a bidder actually possesses a business certificate and that it is provided prior to the award of a contract pursuant to a public bidding process. She also stated that as a result, the current rule is consistent with the law, and the petitioner’s suggested change is unnecessary.

President Goldenberg further stated that petition should be denied because the Motor Vehicle Commission rule that the petitioner wants us to mirror was proposed by MVC to match our rules even though we never had the provision in our rules. She also stated that our administrative rules already require that district boards of education and any coordinated transportation services agency (CTSA) be named in terms of the insurance and they are the entities best situated to take action for a violation of the insurance requirement, including cancellation, by contractors.

Commissioner’s Reports

Remarks by Commissioner Repollet

This is a little tough for me. I spent the last two weeks reflecting, watching, reading on the protests around the country around the murder of George Floyd and so many other countless black Americans.

See, when the governor appointed me commissioner, I said at the podium at Asbury Park that education has saved my life. But people didn’t know that behind it, deep down there was a double meaning. Yes, education saved my life; it took me out of poverty and allowed me to live a decent life and to be able to provide for my family. However, also it saved my life.

I’m going to recall a story, because I think it’s important as I have this pulpit to be able to talk about some of the injustices we have throughout this country. So sitting there watching that young man’s life being taken away from him, I reflected upon a time when I was 22 years old, driving to a stoplight. I had just gotten home from graduate school at SUNY Albany, I was excited, I’m at the red light, and police officers drove up on me, got out of the car, flashing lights. You never know how you will feel until you have a gun put to the temple of your head, asking you to put your hands out, asking you what are you doing here. ‘You look like you fit the profile of people who are carjacking in the neighborhood.’

If anyone who knew me in college, I was a preppy black kid; I wore khaki pants, shaved haircut, polo shirts and Nike sneakers. So to me, whatever description they felt, it wasn’t me. I didn’t wear a hoodie, I didn’t have a hoodie, I didn’t have braids. But it let me know that at this time, my life is in the hands of total strangers. I thought about whether they would drop drugs in the car, would they say that I’m this, would they say that I’m that.

What would the narrative be when they talk about Lamont Repollet when he is dead? Would they say he was a decent student, a student athlete, a college graduate? Or would they bring up things that may have happened in my family, to talk about that. I didn’t have a record, I didn’t do drugs, but I knew there would be something.

A lot of things went through my head, and all I thought was, ‘Think about a way, Lamont, to get out of there.’ I had my hands on the wheel, yes sir, no sir. But I thought about it, I said, ‘Excuse me, it can’t be me, because I was in graduate school at SUNY Albany last week.’ He said to me, ‘Can you prove it?’ In my back pocket, I had my college ID. ‘Is that OK?’ And I took out my college ID, and it said SUNY Albany Student. So when I say education changed my life, there’s that double meaning behind that.

I said to myself, Lamont, you will probably be in that position again, but I was going to ensure that whatever the narrative is for black men in this country, that I was going to change that narrative. So God saw fit for me to be the first black principal of Carteret High School, the first black commissioner of education of the state of New Jersey, and I’ll be the first black president of Kean University.

So, when given opportunities to level the playing field to being equal, it shouldn’t be the color of your skin to determine your destiny, it should be the character and who you are. As educators and parents and simply as citizens, we have a moral obligation as educational leaders to break down systems and policies that reinforce institutional racism. That’s why I’ve been adamant about equity and talking about equity in action. This was my moment and my time to honor those ancestors that came before me and I stood on their shoulders. So the department’s internal equity team is working to provide resources for our districts and employees to have these important conversations with our students and ourselves.

At this time, if you’ll indulge me, I would like to have a brief moment of silence to honor the lives lost due to unjust murders.
Retirement of Linda Eno, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Academics and Performance

Commissioner Repollet stated that Linda Eno would be retiring from the Department after serving as a member of his senior team. He expressed his gratitude to Linda for her hard work, dedication and loyalty during his tenure at the Department. On behalf of the entire Department, Commissioner Repollet wished Assistant Commissioner Eno a happy and healthy retirement.

Introduction of First Lady Tammy Murphy

Commissioner Repollet introduced First Lady Tammy Murphy who has been an invaluable partner to the Department of Education since the beginning of the New Jersey Student Learning Review and Revision process. He stated that from her remarks at the kickoff in March 2019, to in person visits with the various standards review teams, her leadership and passion around environmental education has been inspirational.

He further stated that the First Lady has been a steady champion for the cause of climate change and the role that education plays in helping to solve it.

Commissioner Repollet stated that this past year, First Lady Tammy Murphy visited many schools around the state to see first-hand, the amazing work our educators and students are doing in the classroom to address issues related to climate change. He thanked her for her time and commitment to this very important issue before introducing her to the members of the State Board and all in attendance.

Remarks by First Lady Tammy Murphy

Before I begin, I want to thank and acknowledge the incredible teachers across the state and country who have worked tirelessly to teach virtual classes during the pandemic. Your determination to continuing education has not gone unnoticed and New Jersey thanks you wholeheartedly.
Now, for this momentous occasion, it is a privilege to join with Governor Murphy and Lt. Governor Oliver in thanking the State Board for their leadership and vision. Many months of investigation and dedication to NJ public school students in the achievement of this undertaking. As New Jersey is poised to lead the nation in a green economy, it is critical that every student is provided an opportunity to study and understand the climate crisis in an interdisciplinary way, beyond just their science classrooms.

Going forward, it is not just scientists who will need a deep understanding of this issue, but urban planners, artists, engineers, insurance brokers, entrepreneurs, and more. Including the study of climate change across all 7 content areas ensures that our students will be equipped and empowered to combat climate change no matter what career path they choose.

Over the last 12 months New Jersey’s educational system has reached milestone after milestone. We are among the very best in the country for public education. We are the first in the nation to offer arts education in 100% of our public schools, and we are now the first to admit that climate change is real. It’s a really tangible problem that this generation of children will be required to face, and further it is our duty to prepare them for that certain future. In our beautiful state the effects of climate change are already felt. NJ is warming at a rate faster than almost all other states. Our shorelines are vanishing, we have harmful algae blooms, rain comes in torrential downpours and our summers are blazing hot. All of this as a direct result of climate change will cost NJ a projected $10b. Time has begun to run out.

Despite that, today I am really incredibly optimistic that by including climate change education in history, world languages, visual and performing arts, physical education and of course science, our teachers will be able to leverage the passion that this generation of students have shown for this critical issue. Our children are already engaged in climate activism and incredibly motivated to tackle this problem. For our students in environmental justice communities who suffer most deeply the effects of air pollution the climate crisis is even more personal.

Now every student will be prepared to explore, imagine, and advocate for the innovative solutions to this crisis needed in the communities in which they live. The adoption of these standards is much more than an added educational requirement; it is a symbol of a partnership between generations. We have shared in the creation of this crisis and we will do all we can to help our children resolve it. It genuinely comes as no surprise to me that we are the first here in New Jersey in this endeavor. Our public school has long been the jewel of our nation’s educational systems. New Jerseyans value the commitment to academic rigor and the pursuit of knowledge. We believe in the power of education holds to change the course of a person’s life, but our educational professionals, teachers, administrators, para professionals, custodians – every member of our educational community does more than that. They teach our students to be good citizens.

In one fell swoop, with the adoption of these standards, we strengthen the future of the green economy in New Jersey and protect every future generation from the deadly effects of climate change. It will create the catalyst of knowledge base for new green jobs and teach our students how to be good stewards of the earth, and to become the leaders who will take us to 100% of clean energy by the year 2050. I am incredibly proud to have been able to use my platform to help advocate for the adoption of these standards and I want to express my deepest gratitude to Board President, Kathy Goldenberg, the members of the State Board, Commissioner Repollet, the entire Department of Education and all those in my office and beyond who have helped us get to this point. Congratulations to everyone for today’s incredible achievement. It is a direct result of the collaboration and hard work of hundreds of people and a victory for the people of NJ. I’m really grateful.
