Fellow New Jerseyans:

It is my pleasure to submit the 2018 Institutional Profile Report for Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. This report reflects our commitment to share timely and accurate data about our educational and administrative operations.

This year we have earned reaccreditation by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, awarded a record number of degrees, opened important new academic buildings on our campuses funded with support from the 2012 Building Our Future Bond Act, and set a new high in annual fundraising with more than $223 million in private gifts.

As a member of the prestigious Association of American Universities since 1989, Rutgers takes pride in the excellence and research achievements of our faculty, the success of our students in earning international fellowships and scholarships, the award-winning innovations of our staff, and the many contributions our more than 500,000 alumni make to New Jersey and the world.

This Institutional Profile Report provides valuable information and reflects our continuing commitment to New Jersey and its citizens.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Barchi

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey

General Background

Chartered in 1766 as Queen's College, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is the eighth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States. It has a unique history: from its inception as one of the nation's nine colonial colleges, Rutgers grew to become the land-grant college of New Jersey in 1864, and to assume full university status in 1924. Legislative acts of 1945 and 1956 designated it "The State University of New Jersey." The University of Newark merged with Rutgers in 1946, and the College of South Jersey in Camden joined in 1950. In 2013, most units of the former University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey were integrated into Rutgers. All of the university's property and educational facilities are imparted with a public trust for the higher education of the people of the State.

Today, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is a leading national research university and the state of New Jersey's preeminent, comprehensive public institution of higher education. More than 69,000 students and 22,500 faculty and staff learn, work, and serve the public in locations throughout the state, including:

- Rutgers University-New Brunswick. Rutgers-New Brunswick is where Rutgers began more than 250 years ago. Ranked among the nation's finest research universities, Rutgers' flagship is a member of both the prestigious Association of American Universities (AAU) and the Big Ten Academic Alliance.
- Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences. RBHS is one of the nation's largest academic health centers and is aligned with Rutgers-New Brunswick. RBHS advances medical innovation, provides state-of-the-art patient care, and educates a full complement of healthcare professionals.
- Rutgers University-Newark. Rutgers-Newark is a diverse research university where opportunity meets excellence. It is an anchor institution in New Jersey's largest city and cultural capital.
- Rutgers University-Camden. Rutgers-Camden offers transformative learning experiences in a personalized setting, fosters high-impact research, and engages in solution-oriented service to the city and region around it.

University Mission

As the premier comprehensive public research university in the state's system of higher education, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, has the threefold mission of:

- providing for the instructional needs of New Jersey's citizens through its undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education programs;
- conducting the cutting-edge research that contributes to the medical, environmental, social, and cultural well-being of the state, as well as aiding the economy and the state's businesses and industries; and
- performing public service in support of the needs of the citizens of the state and its local, county, and state governments.

Each component of the university's mission reinforces and supports the other two.

Accreditation Status

In 2018, the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE) reaffirmed the university's accreditation. Numerous programs at the university are also accredited by professional accreditation associations. See the Statement of Accreditation Status from MSCHE reprinted below for details.

DEFINITIONS

Branch Campus - A branch campus is a domestic or international location of an institution that is geographically apart, independent of the primary/main campus. The branch campus is considered independent of the main campus if it is permanent in nature; offers courses in educational programs leading to a degree, certificate, or other recognized educational credential; has its own faculty and administrative or supervisory organization; and has its own budgetary and hiring authority. (34 CFR §600.2)

Additional Location - An additional location is a domestic or international location, other than a branch campus, that is geographically apart from the primary/main campus and at which the institution offers at least 50 percent of the requirements of an educational program. (34 CFR §602.22) ANYA ("Approved but Not Yet Active") indicates that the location is included within the scope of accreditation but has not yet begun to offer courses. This designation is removed after the Commission receives notification that courses have begun at this location. ANYC ("Approved but Not Yet Closed") indicates that the institution has requested that the location be officially closed through the substantive change process. The location is currently included within the scope of accreditation but the institution will be stopping all operations at this location in the near future. The institution should inform the Commission (via email at sc@msche.org) of the date that operations cease. This designation is removed after the Commission receives notification that courses have stopped at this location and the location is no longer listed on the SAS.

Other Instructional Sites - MSCHE defines an other instructional site as any off-campus site, other than those meeting the definition of a branch campus or an additional location, at which the institution offers one or more courses for credit. Sites designated as an other instructional site do not require substantive change approval. However, substantive change approval is required to reclassify an other instructional site to or from a branch campus or additional location.

Distance Education Programs - Fully Approved, Approved (one program approved) or Not Approved indicates whether or not the institution has been approved to offer diploma/certificate/degree programs via distance education (programs for which students could meet 50% or more of the requirements of the program by taking distance education courses). Per the Commission's Substantive Change policy, Commission approval of the first two Distance Education programs is required to be "Fully Approved." If only one program is approved by the Commission, the specific name of the program will be listed in parentheses after "Approved."

Commission actions are explained in the policy Accreditation Actions.

Enrollment in Remediation Courses, Fall 2017

All newly admitted first-year students will take Rutgers University's placement tests. Transfer students entering Rutgers without an equivalent English writing course or math course will also be required to take placement tests. The placement tests are designed to provide information about students' individual skills in the English language and in mathematics. The test results will be used to place students in the courses and sections appropriate to their level of preparation.

Rutgers University – RBHS

Research Overview

Rutgers is a leading national research university, with a depth and breadth of research activity and resources unparalleled in New Jersey. With the establishment of Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences (RBHS), Rutgers moves to new heights and now stands as one of America's largest, most comprehensive university-based centers for studying and improving human health and health care. Through basic, translational, and clinical research—spanning the life sciences, physical sciences, and social sciences—we advance knowledge and technology that drive education, medical breakthroughs, and economic development, while improving lives at home and in the global community.

Led by the university's faculty, research is supported by staff in many units. The Office of Research and Economic Development facilitates grant applications, research alliances, technology commercialization, and relationships among faculty and the business community.

- The Rutgers Clinical Research Organization is the gateway to RBHS's statewide clinical trial activities. Dedicated to effective collaboration between industry and academia to advance care and the boundaries of health care treatment, we partner with patients, industry, and practitioners to identify appropriate investigators and academic resources to meet patients' needs.
- The Rutgers Office of Technology Commercialization serves as a bridge between Rutgers researchers and commercialization partners, ensuring the smooth and fast transfer of intellectual property created at the university. The staff educates and serves as a resource for the Rutgers community on matters relating to intellectual property, technology commercialization and entrepreneurship; protects intellectual property via trademarks and patents; and negotiates patent licenses.
- The Office of Translational Science (OTS) assists biomedical science faculty in creating and building interdisciplinary collaborative research. By providing access to facilities and expertise in molecular imaging, synthesis of probe molecules, and related technologies, OTS is committed to meeting the needs of both university and industry collaborators.

Brain Health Institute

The goal of the Brain Health Institute (BHI) is to develop neuroscience at Rutgers to become a highly translational and internationally preeminent research enterprise. New tools are transforming neuroscience, and these afford an unprecedented opportunity to create new treatments for central nervous system disorders. Neuroscience has been identified by Rutgers University as one of five signature areas for future focus and development. As part of this strategic plan, the BHI was established to become an internationally recognized center for basic, translational, and clinical research into the biological bases of human brain function and dysfunction. The BHI is the home for the overall Rutgers neuroscience initiative, and is a growing interdisciplinary institute consisting of more than 250 principal investigators with neuroscience laboratories across various campuses of Rutgers University and Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences. By supporting and coordinating neuroscience across all campuses, the BHI will unite Rutgers University's dynamic and diverse neuroscience community toward common goals:

1. To create research programs focused on the biological underpinnings of the central nervous system's function and dysfunction.
2. To develop treatments for these disorders using novel neuroscience tools.
3. To establish a rich neuroscience resource in New Jersey that educates the public, clinicians, faculty, and students, as well as state, national, and international health officials.

BHI Strategic Plan

Initial focus for development of neuroscience via the BHI at Rutgers will be on four areas and associated disorders: neurodevelopment (autism spectrum disorder and schizophrenia), neurodegeneration and injury (multiple sclerosis, Parkinson's disease, spinal cord and traumatic brain injury), cognitive and sensory neuroscience (aging and Alzheimer's disease), and motivational and affective neuroscience (addiction, obesity, depression, anxiety). The selection of the focus areas was based on an analysis of strengths at Rutgers currently, as well as the recognition of prevalent nervous system disorders with a large need for novel treatments. A major goal will be to identify potential teams within these areas of focus, where targeted recruitments would have a significant impact on multi-investigator translational research. The program will be led by the BHI director, Dr. Gary Aston-Jones.

A further area of focus for the Brain Health Institute will be to utilize new techniques in basic neuroscience to develop novel therapies for brain and spinal disorders. Over the past 7 years, developments in viral vector neurotransduction, optogenetics, and chemogenetics (designer receptors), among other areas, are revolutionizing neuroscience. These new methods have proven effective in altering brain function and dysfunction in highly specific ways in animal models, indicating that such methods may lead to a new generation of neurotherapeutics. Indeed, viral vectors are already being used in clinical trials to treat Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases by expressing growth factors to halt degeneration of neurons in the basal forebrain and midbrain. Similar viral vectors can be used to express opsins or designer receptors in a cell type-specific manner to allow control of selective populations of brain or spinal neurons with unprecedented specificity. This will allow new therapies, based upon knowledge from basic neuroscience research, with many fewer side effects compared to almost any current treatment. Rutgers can take the lead in the development of such new therapeutics.

By studying different disorders in parallel, we can identify commonalities for the underpinnings of disease. Moreover, the new neuroscience techniques that will be used as the basis for novel neurotherapeutics will be applicable across all of these and other neural disorders. The goal is to identify the genetic, environmental, and other aspects related to neuropathology and repair so that effective strategies can be developed for prevention and treatment..

Cancer Institute of New Jersey

Research Overview

Bringing research to life: From genetic implications to exploring the impact of self-cannibalization of cancer cells, scientists at Rutgers Cancer Institute work in concert with our physicians to translate cancer discoveries into today's treatments.

Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey's physician-scientists engage in translational research, transforming their laboratory discoveries into clinical practice, outsmarting cancer with science.

Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey is a matrix style, basic, clinical and population research center as well as a consortium cancer center with Rutgers University and Princeton University leveraging the science of the state's cancer researchers through collaboration. Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey is sharply focused on fulfilling the cancer research needs of the most densely populated and industry rich state in the nation.

Research is currently being conducted in areas including: population science, precision medicine, systems biology, oncogenesis, tumor virology and immunology, autophagy, drug development and resistance, the relationship between cellular and genetic alterations and tumor development, cancer control and prevention, bioinformatics, and cancer genomics.

Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey continues to expand its foundation of knowledge and the technical tools with which rapid advances can be made in understanding the mechanisms of cancer. Opportunities to manage the disease have increased and clinical research studies have yielded results that will have a profound effect in the prevention and treatment of many cancers.

Center for Advanced Biotechnology and Medicine

CABM was established to be a hub for biomedical research at Rutgers University and the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School (UMDNJ-RWJMS) in Piscataway/New Brunswick (NB). It has succeeded admirably in this task. CABM investigators, who hold academic appointments in departments of RWJMS, the School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) and the Earnest Mario School of Pharmacy (EMSoP), have become internationally-recognized leaders in their respective fields, deeply involved in interdisciplinary research and teaching programs that bridge across multiple departments and schools. In July 2013 the NJ Higher Education Restructuring Act dissolved UMDNJ and merged most of its schools with three Rutgers campuses creating a single Rutgers University. CABM was placed in the newly created Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences (RBHS) unit that contains most previous schools of UMDNJ. CABM reports directly to RBHS Chancellor Brian Strom. Although UMDNJ and Rutgers have merged, CABM retains a somewhat unique status as a joint institute with faculty distributed among schools under the supervision of two different chancellors (RBHS and Rutgers-NB).

CABM continues to be singularly positioned as a highly productive interface across the scientific and medical communities at Rutgers. CABM faculty and scientific staff lead research collaborations and consortia involving investigators across Rutgers University, direct core facilities, head shared instrumentation grants, teach undergraduate, graduate and medical school courses, play key roles in training grants and graduate programs, and hold leadership administrative positions in the university.

CABM faculty members play leading roles in the international and national biomedical research community. These activities include chairing scientific committees and organizing conferences, symposia, and workshops; serving on NIH, NSF, private foundation, and international funding agency advisory committees; participating on advisory boards for departments, programs, and national technology resources at other universities; and serving as journal editors and editorial board members, and as officers and committee members of scientific professional society.

CABM provides critical components supporting the missions of RBHS and RU-NB in teaching and scientific excellence. As CABM investigators are also faculty members of several different academic departments, their research programs promote powerful synergies across the university. CABM is a major link between RBHS and the Rutgers-NB academic and scientific communities; provides the primary strength of RBHS in proteomics and structural biology; and fosters collaborative interactions between biomedical and physical science disciplines including chemistry, molecular biophysics, engineering, and computer science. These unique interdisciplinary strengths of CABM are essential elements of innovative biomedical research across the Rutgers Piscataway/New Brunswick campuses. In particular, the primary research focus areas of CABM, Infectious Disease, Cancer, and Neurodevelopment/ Neurodegeneration, are central components of the RBHS Strategic Plan. CABM promises to continue to play a unique role in integrating RBHS within Rutgers University and contributing to the Rutgers goal of excellence in education and research.

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY - NEWARK

An Anchor Institution

Investing in Synergistic Collaborations

Rutgers University – Newark (RU-N) is a remarkably diverse, urban, public research university that is not just in Newark but of Newark—an anchor of our home city. The RU-N community has long recognized that our location is both a defining influence in our story and a distinctive strength. It attracts and cultivates talent on many levels, ranging from generations of students hungry for the opportunities afforded by a first-rate higher education in a major American urban center, to faculty who vigorously embrace the opportunity to produce high-impact scholarship, and engage the community while preparing these students for professional success and informed citizenship. Our location is also a magnet for professional staff committed to advancing our research, pedagogy, and social impact within an inclusive campus culture focused on excellence.

Our campus recently completed a strategic visioning process that underscored this defining aspect of RU-N’s identity, yielding a strategic plan that emphasizes the need to develop even more fully and purposefully our anchor institution agenda. Our work toward this end has been organized thus far under five broad areas that capture much of the scholarly expertise and civic-oriented interests in anchor institution work:

- Building Strong Educational Pathways \(pre-K-16\) for Increased Postsecondary Attainment
- Strong, Healthy, and Safe Neighborhoods
- Promoting and Leveraging the Arts and Culture
- Science and the Urban Environment
- Entrepreneurship and Economic Development
- Honors Living-Learning Community: An Option for Transfer Students

Our goal is to move away from traditional models of “public service” in which faculty and students do things for “a passive and needy public,” as public historian Scott Peters has put it, and engage instead in “public work that taps and engages and develops the civic agency, talents, and capacities of everyone, inside and outside the academy.” Our strategic activities in these areas already range from cross-disciplinary initiatives rooted in community, to partnerships with diverse “communities of experts,” to co-created spaces in the city and region. Throughout, we seek to pool the expertise and energies of our faculty, staff, and students with those of partners from across the public, private, and nonprofit sectors.

Community Partnerships and Engagement

Community Health Programs

Health services at Rutgers aim to ensure that all individuals, particularly those living in traditionally underserved areas, have access to high-quality health care regardless of their cultural or ethnic background or ability to pay. Many of our programs serve residents in urban communities of New Jersey. Below are some of our signature programs.

Community Health Programs, Robert Wood Johnson Medical School

Robert Wood Johnson Medical School (RWJMS) has a clearly stated commitment to community service and the improvement of community health. Medical students at RWJMS engage in a variety of community health activities including the Homeless and Indigent Populations Health and Outreach Project \(HIPHOP\) and the Promise Clinic in New Brunswick.

Eric B. Chandler Health Center, Robert Wood Johnson Medical School

The center is a comprehensive, family-oriented community health center offering primary care services including family medicine, internal medicine, infectious disease, pediatrics obstetrics and gynecology, podiatry, family planning, and dentistry.

FOCUS Wellness Center, School of Nursing

The center provides comprehensive primary care, and women's health, mental health, and medication review and education services to Newark and surrounding communities. The center is a model of interprofessional collaborative practice, uniting Rutgers faculty and students from the School of Nursing, School of Social Work, Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy, and School of Health Professions in helping patients to achieve their best possible health outcomes. The center was established through a partnership with the FOCUS Hispanic Center for Community Development.

Free Community Participatory Physical Therapy Clinic, School of Health Professions

The clinic serves the community of Newark with physical therapy services and education on wellness and health. It is supervised by a licensed physical therapist and student volunteers from the entry-level doctoral program in physical therapy.

Jordan and Harris Community Health Center, School of Nursing

The center provides comprehensive, on site health services to residents of the Hyatt Court, Pennington Court, Terrell Homes, and the Stephen Crane Village public housing developments in Newark. In collaboration with the school's Mobile Healthcare Project, the center offers physical exams, vaccinations, screenings, and diagnostic testing, as well as home visits to elderly or housebound residents, pregnant women, and new mothers.

Mobile Healthcare Project, School of Nursing

This initiative includes the New Jersey Children Health Project (NJCHP), a partnership with the Children's Health Fund that takes a fully equipped mobile health clinic to neighborhoods in Newark and vicinity to provide primary and preventative care to medically underserved children and families. Goals of the NJCHP include ensuring that children in high-risk populations have access to primary and specialty care, mental health services, and early identification and management of chronic conditions including asthma and childhood obesity.

Oral Care at the School of Dental Medicine

The Rutgers School of Dental Medicine provides a full range of oral health services while training the next generation of dentists. Care is provided by dental students working under the direction of faculty members who are fully licensed dentists.

Student Family Health Care Center, New Jersey Medical School

The center offers free health care to the Newark community. Services include physical examinations, chronic disease management, gynecological care, and psychological counseling. All services are provided by volunteer medical students under the supervision of board-certified family physicians.
