Mother Nature cooperated to provide a beautiful day for the New Jersey Disability Pride Parade and Celebration which took place on Friday, October 7th in Trenton, NJ. The event began with a brief presentation at the State House and a parade which culminated with presentations by people with disabilities and a celebration a few blocks away. DDHH was among the many exhibitors at the event to share information about our services with those attending the celebration.

DDHH Staff Transfers to Gallaudet

DDHH Service Coordinator Catie Purrazzella who had been with the division for four years transferred effective November 1 for employment at Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C. While we are happy for her advancement, we are saddened to see her leave. Catie initiated a casework program in which she assisted individuals to negotiate the labyrinth of services in the community and gain access when they had difficulty. Anyone whom she came in contact with could readily see that she cared deeply about the consumers we serve. We extend our greatest wishes to Catie for her future endeavors.

DDHH Advisory Council Presents on Law Enforcement Interaction

On Friday, October 28 Joseph Geleta, Director of the DHS Office of Emergency Management gave a presentation to its members and community at the East Brunswick Public Library. He related that he is the former Executive Director of NJ211 Partnership, managed the operations of the State-wide 9-1-1, and served with the State Police for 30 years. He led a discussion about law enforcement interaction with people who are deaf and hard of hearing. Prior to this DDHH staff also met with representatives of the State Police. It was learned that before becoming a trooper there is an extensive training program, some of which addresses issues of importance to the deaf and hard of hearing and the police during interaction. The meetings concluded that this will be a beginning of a continued effort to improve communications and make adjustments as necessary. Both parties agreed that this will be an ongoing process.
