Opioid Overdose Recovery Program (OORP)

The OORP responds to individuals who are brought to the emergency room after having been reversed from an opioid overdose. This free program uses recovery specialists and patient navigators to provide assistance, support, and referral information. The recovery specialists and patient navigators will maintain follow up for up to eight weeks after initial contact. Additionally, recovery coaches and patient navigators will link you to services and provide support and resources throughout the eight weeks.

Support Team for Addiction Recovery (STAR)

The STAR program provides free case management and recovery support services for individuals with opioid use disorders. Case managers will work with you to assist with issues that often come with an opioid abuse disorder, such as homelessness, incarceration, legal issues, employment, education, transportation, need for social services, health care, child welfare involvement, child care, health insurance and documentation. The program's recovery specialists will provide assistance and recovery support services. The goal is to help you remain in the recovery zone for as long as possible, help to reduce the risk of recurring episodes of opioid-related problems and prevent future overdose.
