The sounds of chattering children, musical instruments and teachers instructing students echoed through the halls of Atlantic City's Brighton Avenue School. With the creak of the front doors opening, the noise level dipped as Airmen from the New Jersey Air National Guard entered the building.

It meant a lot to see how much they enjoyed listening. It's a very rewarding feeling.

The five Airmen, representing Joint Force Headquarters, the 108th Wing and the 177th Fighter Wing, all came together to participate in Read Across America.

Founded by the National Education Association, Read Across America coincides around the time of renowned children's author Dr. Seuss's birthday on March 2, and features military and comso I really don't get a chance to sit down and have these interactions, so it's nostalgic for me, but, more importantly, the children, the looks on their faces, the surprise; it's amazing to be a part of that type of transaction."

"You know they're getting something out of it, and at the same time we're getting something out of it," said Mason. "It was a great experience."

Airman 1st Class Hannah Bartlett, an administrator from the 108th Wing, read Peggy Rathmann's Officer Buckle and Gloria to fifth graders. After she finished, Bartlett answered student's questions on everything from military food to what adventures she had been on.

"I went to Guam with the Wing," said Bartlett. "That was fun, but it was munity members coming together to read to children in local schools.

The Airmen were greeted by Courtney Mitchell, who acted as the teacher-military liaison.

"It means so much to the kids to have the National Guard here," said Mitchell.

Mitchell then lead the Airmen to the classrooms where they would be reading to students.

Tech. Sgt. Archie Mason lightened the mood with a short question and answer session before he began reading, asking students if they liked books as much as their siblings.

"To come out and talk to the children is really great," said Mason, a recruiter with the 177th Fighter Wing. "I have older children, a lot of hard work."

Tech Sgt. Janeen MacGray, from New Jersey Joint Force Headquarters, was overwhelmed with all of the smiles she faced as she read to the second graders.

"It meant a lot to see how much they enjoyed listening," said MacGray. "It's a very rewarding feeling."

In New Jersey, Soldiers and Airmen of the New Jersey National Guard volunteer to participate in these events. The Department of Defense encourages all members of the Armed Services to participate in the Read Across America program.

Each Airman received a card from their classroom signed by the students thanking them for their time and for promoting literacy.

Retirement seminar

Story and photo by Kryn P. Westhoven, New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs Public Affairs

Marie Durling, New Jersey Army National Guard retirement services officer, discusses the points system during the retirement seminar at the Joint Military and Family Assistance Center in Bordentown Feb. 21, 2015.

When you first join the National Guard it is hard to think about retirement, but once you get to the top of the mountain, the 10-year mark, retirement starts to come into focus.

For more than a dozen Citizen-Soldiers, retirement was on their mind, bringing them to a seminar at the Joint Military and Family Assistance Center in Bordentown February 21.

Every Soldier and Airmen needs to keep records of drill pay in order to correct any mistakes. That is much easier now with MyPay. Gone are the days of boxes of Leave and Earnings Statements, the LES's can be download digitally for safekeeping.

Service member should review their retirement points annually looking for 'good years' of service, which come from earning 50 or more points in a year. "You need to make sure you have the right amount of points," said Marie Durling, New Jersey Army National Guard retirement services officer.

"Every point is worth money," added Durling, organizer of the seminar. For an E-6 with 20 years, a point is worth .0256 cents. That's a quarter for every point you will receive every month after age 60.

As you approach the 20-year mark, you will be asked about choosing an option for the survivor benefit annuity plan. For the traditional Guard member, the Reserve Component Survivor Benefit Plan elections you make during the 90-day period after being notified of retirement eligibility are irrevocable. Changes can be made within a year of life changing events like the birth of child, death of a spouse or divorce.

Then there is the ticket to retirement, the 20-year letter. "I don't know about you, but I would be framing that 20-year letter until I needed it," joked Durling. That letter proves your eligibility and key to begin filing for retirement pay.

Safekeeping of the 20-year letter is important as some Soldiers will have upwards of two decades before reaching age 60. If you want to keep the ability to access military bases to use recreational facilities or shop at the commissary, you need to make sure you choose Individual Ready Reserve as you hang up the uniform.

One tip shared at the seminar for Army Guard soldiers was to be present when the personnel clerk create your NGB 22, which is the Guard version of the active duty DD-214. That way you can ensure everything is correct and you can sign the form once printed.

Contact Marie Durling at 609-530-7043 for an appointment to review retirement points or to find the date of the next seminar, which is open to everyone, whether close to retirement or not.

ENERGY CONSERVATION TIP OF THE WEEK

Reflective roofs - more than a fashion statement

Did You Know...

By adding a reflective coating to your roof or avoiding dark colored roofing materials, you can reduce the amount heat coming into your home.

This will decrease how much you need to use your air conditioning during the summer. Also, this reflective layer will help prevent expansion and contraction of your roof, which can help extend the life of your roof. (Source: www.progress-energy.com)
