PVSC Employees Garner Numerous NJWEA Awards

Over the years, PVSC has received numerous industry awards for distinction in the operations, engineering and environmental fields. This year is no different as PVSC has once again been recognized by the New Jersey Water Environment Association (NJWEA) for strategic excellence in wastewater management. Through its awards, the NJWEA encourages individuals to aid the environment. Ten PVSC employees were presented with awards at a reception this May in Atlantic City.

Jennifer Marques, PVSC’s Laboratory Manager, received the Water Environment Federation (WEF) Laboratory Analyst Excellence Award. This honor is presented annually to recognize an individual for outstanding performance, professionalism, and contributions to the water quality analysis laboratory profession.

Lisa Oberreiter, a PVSC Operations Superintendent II, received the NJWEA Leroy Forman Award. This honor is presented annually to recognize an individual for providing outstanding contributions toward research and application of in-plant studies of operational processes.

Several members of PVSC’s Operations team, including Roman Albonico, Fred Chasar, Henry Gonzalez, Dan Balvin, Mike Drago, Carlos Lugo, Robert Masucci and Joe Susino, received WEF Quarter Century Operation Club Awards. This honor is presented to individuals with significant, full-time participation in the water environment profession for more than 25 years, 10 years of which must have been in active participation in the day-to-day collections, maintenance, operations, laboratory or management of a wastewater transportation or treatment facility.

“Our treatment plant is operated and maintained by a diligent and talented group of people,” said PVSC Chairman Thomas Tucci, Jr. “We take great pride that these individuals have been justifiably honored for the hard work and dedication they put into wastewater management.”
