Content Note

Most of the files of the transition office of Brendan Byrne are arranged by subject, for example, education, labor, etc. They contain proposed policies and guidelines to legislative action, internal memos within the transition staff, drafts of bills, and letters from private organizations and lobbying groups. A separate file on "Legislation Preparation and Proposals" consists largely of drafts of new bills. The file labeled "Miscellaneous" contains documents relating to the organization of the incoming gubernatorial office, as well as materials relating to minor policy issues. The files were created by Lewis Kaden, who subsequently became Executive Counsel under Governor Byrne, 1974 to 1977.
